Linda Smith retained United Law Group to prevent foreclosure on her Red Bluff, CA home. The firm worked with Ocwen to reduce her rate to 3.95%.

Irvine, CA and Sacramento, CA (Vocus) June 16, 2009 -- United Law Group, the leading provider of legal foreclosure prevention and foreclosure litigation services today announced that it successfully negotiated a rate reduction for Linda Smith of Red Bluff, CA. Ms. Smith works as a nighttime nursing supervisor at Mercy Hospital in Redding, CA. She planned on retiring within the next five years until the financial crisis robbed her of that choice. Having lost 1/3 of her 401(k) and almost 50% of the value of her home, Ms. Smith was struggling to save for her future and pay her current bills.

"I was close to retiring when things turned south," said Ms. Smith. "I lost my nest egg and was worried about losing my home."

Ms. Smith grew concerned when losses in the stock market and rising interest rates on her mortgage threatened her retirement plans and her ability to remain in her home.

"I knew that I needed an attorney to deal with the lenders," said Ms. Smith. "United Law Group helped me to navigate this difficult process."

United Law Group negotiated a rate reduction on Ms. Smith's second mortgage that will enable her to keep her home. The firm is actively working with the note holder on her first to reduce that rate as well.

"Linda Smith is a prime example of why we do the work we do," said Sean Rutledge, Managing Director for United Law Group. "She's a hard working citizen who, through no fault of her own, needed help preventing foreclosure on her home. Our attorneys were able to negotiate a rate reduction from 11.75% to 3.95% on her second mortgage."

Ms. Smith plans hopes to get her retirement plans back on track with the money she is saving.

"Everyone I worked with at United Law Group was professional and helpful," said Ms. Smith. "I'm grateful to the firm for their hard work."
